1. The candidate, Daniel Carter, is a seasoned legal executive with over 20 years of experience in corporate governance, compliance, and risk management. He has specialized skills in corporate governance, compliance & risk management, mergers & acquisitions, contract negotiation, and intellectual property law. His professional experience includes roles as General Counsel at LegalPath and Chief Legal Officer at SecureLaw Inc. He has a Juris Doctor (JD) degree from Yale Law School and a B.A. in Political Science from Princeton University.

2. The missing information includes the candidate's country and city of residence, the start and end years of his education, and common skills. The country and city of residence are important to determine if the candidate is eligible or willing to relocate for the job. The start and end years of his education can provide insights into his age, which might be relevant for some roles. Common skills, while not as specialized, are still important as they can demonstrate the candidate's versatility and adaptability.

3. Given the role of "Chief Legal Officer" at PayWave Technologies, the following key information is missing from his CV:

  - Experience or familiarity with the FinTech sector: The job description specifies that the candidate should preferably have experience in FinTech.

  - Understanding of SEC and financial regulations: While the candidate has experience with SEC compliance, it's not clear if he has a comprehensive understanding of financial regulations, which is crucial for the role.

  - Experience with patent filings and IP strategy management: Although the candidate has secured patents before, it's not clear if he has experience managing an overall IP strategy.

  - Experience with remote work: The job is remote, but the candidate's CV doesn't mention any experience with remote work.

  - Indication of soft skills: The job description mentions the need for strong negotiation skills, excellent communication, and the ability to build relationships with global partners. These are not explicitly mentioned in the candidate's CV.

Missing Points: